About Counselling Program

In the face of globalization and the rapid development of information technology, individuals are in a world in which volatility, uncertainty, complexity and ambiguity reign and employment has become increasingly unstable and uncertain. The emergence of the Covid-19 pandemic has intensified challenges in our societies, adding complexity and accompanying turmoil to different economic and labour market developments. The closure of educational institutions has also brought about many negative impacts and also has reshaped the perception of individuals about work. Naturally the working age group has suffered most and the young people are the worst victims of the situation. However, career guidance during the pandemic can help the students to search the new opportunities that exist and also to overcome anxiety. Keeping in view the need of the students, an online counselling program will be organized by Ranaghat College in order to make students aware of the scope of their advancement and employability.
