Best Practice I

Title: Financial assistance to students of college belonging to economically disadvantaged families.

Aim: The college has created the fund namely “Poor and Merit Fund” in order to assist the poorest students of college who often find it difficult to carry on their higher studies in college due to financial problem.

Context: Since most of the students in college come from the rural areas and slums, they suffer from financial problems to meet the demand of books and fees for carrying on higher studies. They often drop out from college for their inability to carry on their study and prepare properly for University examinations for want of materials. Most of the students are in need of financial assistance for their development in academic preparations. Although the college has limited means, yet an effort is made to prevent the students from dropping out by extending financial help. The college authority has built up a separate fund for assisting those students.

Practice: A large number of students studying in college have been benefitted through this fund namely “Poor and Merit Fund”. By extending financial assistance to poor students, an effort to reduce the number of dropped out students has been made successfully. These students also find the fund useful for them to procure the necessary study materials.

Evidence of Success: The data collected in terms of the number of students benefitted from the “Poor and Merit Fund” shows that the venture of college in helping its students proves successful. The response from students and their feedback regarding the help from the fund is quite satisfactory.

Problems Encountered: There are a large number of students belonging to poor families in college and the fund is quite inadequate to provide assistance to each of them. It is always in the mind of the college authority to assist maximum number of students from this fund but, it is not always possible to do so due to limited means.

Best Practice - 2

Title: Spread of higher education in the locality of College through the program of Open Distance Learning.

Aim: The aim of introducing Open Distance Learning program under the aegis of IGNOU is to spread higher education in the locality of college and provide facility to people who cannot attend college and University regularly.

Context: There are various people who cannot pursue their education for different reasons. Many of them have to join service for economical reasons and they cannot enroll themselves in college and university for want of time. Keeping in view the demand of such candidates the college introduced Distance Learning program for imparting education in both UG and PG courses. At present there are 8 programs in all in arts subjects. One assistant professor of college works as the coordinator of this program and there is also an office assistant to assist candidates in admission to Distance Learning and other official works.

Practice: A large number of students get admitted to the UG and PG courses under IGNOU. Teachers of this college engage classes on Sundays regularly in the campus of college. Sometimes teachers from other colleges are invited to conduct classes. Students attend the classes with a keen interest. All students are informed properly in advance regarding the classes and topics. Every student is provided the study materials supplied by the University. They take examination under both Semester and Annual program as per their choice every year.

Evidence of success: The response of people in the locality to the Distance Learning program under IGNOU is quite satisfactory. In the very first year a large number of candidates of different age groups got admitted to both UG and PG courses. They attended in classes in considerable number even on holidays. The number of successful candidates in examination conducted by IGNOU is very encouraging. The demand for admission to Distance Learning courses is increasing every year.

Problems encountered: Sometimes inadequate supply of Study materials created problem for conducting the program. Problem of arranging classes on holidays also surfaced at times.
